HYPERION.

The first appearance of Miss Olga Netherole in New Haven last night was easily the most brilliant event of the present theatrical season so far. The audience was large and fashionable. New Haven's best society having turned out to welcome this fine young tragedienne. The first reception here was certainly as warm and cordial as could be wished, the applause being wild after each act. After the second act there were the wildest sort of howls and yells from the upper gallery, where the appreciative students most do him them. Miss Netherole showed her gratitude in the prettiest way, and she will undoubtedly go away with the mistaken idea that New Haven audiences are enthusiastic and cordial, when they are really proverbially cold, and it was only the splendid passion of her acting which had aroused them from their torpor to this unusual conduct.

"Denise," which has been adapted from Alexander Dumas play of the same name by those masters of stagecraft, Clement Scott and Sir Augustus Harris, was given its first public hearing last night. The use of Dumas' name was superfluous. No one could have written it all the handiwork of the Dumas drama were there, the conventional plot, the virtuous lover, the philosophic friend, who makes nice speeches, the ingenue, and the cynical epigram, not to speak of the woman who has sinners but who is otherwise pure and lovable; the woman about whom Dumas wrote all his plays. He spent his literary life in trying to prove to the world that "la virtue de classe" is a virtuous woman—the discussion of which is fresh in our minds with "Tess" and "Tribby."

The play has been admirably adapted for English speaking audiences and will undoubtedly be a popular addition to Miss Netherole's repertoire. It affords her fine opportunity for the display of her fine gifts. She shows a splendid dramatic fire that carries her beyond the range of so-called emotional actresses into the ranks of genius. She told the story of her trouble in the great scene of the play with such perfect counterfeiting of real emotion that the effect on the audience was almost too painful. When the curtain went down and the lights went up and exposed the rows of tear stained faces the actress had the finest compliment that could be paid her. And the pathos of her parting from her parents and friends in the last act was as finely beautiful as the last act of Modjeska's "Mary Stuart." We are writing in superlatives, but are still under the spell of her art. She may be crude, perhaps she could use her voice better, but the real thing which we look for so often and so seldom find is—genius.

Her support was excellent in every respect. The company is one of the most capable ones we have seen here for a long time. The leading actor, Ernest Leicester, is a fine manly fellow, and acts with discretion and conscientiousness. Miss Effie Shannon is one of the best ingenues on the stage, and she was warmly welcomed on her entrance. The performance was very smooth and showed careful rehearsal and excellent management. We trust that Olga Netherole will visit us often.

Bronson Howard's "Shenandoah" will be given at the Hyperion on Friday and Saturday evenings. "Shenandoah" delights all patriotic Americans, and the late General W. T. Sherman was highly enthusiastic in his praise of it. The beautiful love story, together with the incidents as they occurred in the Shenandoah valley, the complete torch signals, the bugle calls and the scene showing Sheridan's rally of his retreating army, combine to arouse the audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. Sale of seats now open. Prices $1 and 75 cents.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The brilliantly illuminated Grand opera house was packed to the doors last night, and at 7:40 the "standing room only" sign was displayed. Frank Bush and his excellent company was the attraction. Mr. Bush is seen in a many-sided role for a many-sided comedian, and the hearty applause bestowed by the audience clearly shows that his efforts are thoroughly appreciated. First appearing as a disengaged actor, with no money but much "nerve," he speedily transforms himself into a raw Yankee "Rube," then into a tough boy, then into a German girl, next into a Hebrew, then into an Irishman, and finally into a popular comic opera prima donna. The situations in which he figures in these different guises are of the most laughable description. The other characters involved in them are all exceedingly funny. The specialties given by Mr. Bush and the other clever people in the company are of the most refreshing quality. A New York flat building provides the three different scenes of action.

The matinee yesterday was largely attended, the majority being chiefly ladies and children, who seem to look forward to the performances at the Grand opera house as part of their weekly engagements.

There will be a matinee to-day. Prices 10 cents, 20 cents and 25 cents. The engagement closes with this evening's performance.

The highly popular melodrama "The Land of the Living," which comes to the Grand the last three days of this week, comes to America with a record of 200 nights at the Adelphi theater, London, and a description of the plot would indicate it is quite up to the Harvey standard. The scenes are said to be original. The action of the play takes place in London and in the diamond mines of Africa. The scenery (of which there is a carload) will show localities in both regions.

BILIOUSNESS.

"I have used that most excellent medicine, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, for upwards of fifteen years," writes Mrs. J. R. Lacy of Dryden, N. Y. "I first commenced taking it for biliousness; would vomit until I was so exhausted and weak I could not stand."

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cured me of this trouble, and in every way has been a great help to me. I gave it to a friend who suffered with dizzy sick spells, and it helped him at once.

Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cures all diseases brought about by an impure condition of the blood, such as eczema, scrofula, rheumatism, urinary troubles, dyspepsia, constipation, kidney and liver complaints. All druggists, $1.00 a bottle.

"Slaves of Gold," which has already made its mark here on previous visits, comes to the Grand the first three days of next week.

POLI'S WONDERLAND THEATRE.

Poli's Wonderland theater is an immensely popular resort. At every evening performance for the last eleven days the theater has been packed to the stairways, and last evening saw one of the biggest audiences of the season. Nilsson's grand aerial ballet specially delighted the great crowd, although the splendid specialty bill given in addition to its spectacular effects, and so beautiful and intoxicating to the eye, that it seems like a glimpse of fairyland. Among the specialty artists Miss Jessie Bradbury especially signified herself. She is a very shapely and handsome young lady, with sprightly grace and vivacity in every movement and action, and she sings and dances in a way to delight all who see her. Other specialists who contribute to the excellent bill are the Wait sisters, Burns and Tony Hart, Jr., Stack and Milton, Mr. Havens and Miss Andrews, A. C. Lawrence, Mr. Loring and Miss Leslie, and W. E. Whitte. Afternoon performance every day, and ladies admitted to all parts of the house for ten cents.

How to Save Money and Health.

Most people have some trouble with their health which they would like cured if it could be done easily and cheaply. Dr. Greene, of 35 West Fourth street, New York city, who is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, makes the following offer: He gives you the privilege of consulting him, free of charge, through his great system of letter correspondence. Write him just how you feel and what symptoms trouble you. He will answer your letter, explaining your case thoroughly, telling just what ails you and how to get strong and well. He gives the most careful attention to every letter, and makes his explanations so clear that you understand exactly what your complaint is. And for all this you pay nothing. You do not leave your home, and have no doctor's fee to pay. The Doctor makes a specialty of treating patients through letter correspondence. He is having wonderful success. He is the discoverer of that celebrated medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. If you write him at once you will doubtless be cured.
